

FAR Online

Finally! Intelligent Access to FAR anywhere

US Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR)

The United States Government is the largest single customer in the world. Any company selling to a federal agency needs to comply with thousands of pages of complex, ever-evolving rules in the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and supplements like DFARS. Until now, finding, cross-referencing, updating, and understanding information in the mass of FAR rules has been a daily headache for the hundreds of thousands of businesses that supply federal agencies, and for the procurement professionals who purchase these goods and services.

Making federal procurement far simpler

FAR Online makes life easier by bringing this complex acquisition regulation to life in an online Intelligent Document Format™ (IDF™). Find the information you need, when you need it, with easy access, intuitive navigation and powerful search capabilities for FAR and FAR Supplements that were previously impossible. Add private notes and attachments to any clause to integrate information critical to the smooth and successful management of US federal procurement and supply contracts:

- Access FAR and FAR supplements quickly and easily
- Use dynamic pop-up definitions for faster understanding
- See related information with intelligent cross-links
- Perform complex searches with ease and focus

Easy navigation, powerful search, pop-up definitions, smart cross-links

“FAR regulations guide billions of dollars of annual acquisition by US Federal agencies. FAR Online will transform information access in this multi billion dollar acquisition market both for federal procurement specialists and for the private sector suppliers that sell to them.”
